ATLANTA, GA- Bull Realty welcomes commercial real estate brokers Austin Bull and Cole Ingram to the firm's retail and industrial teams, respectively, shortly after expanding the teams in May due to the increased demand for brokers in those sectors to assist with Bull Realty clients.

Austin specializes in assisting clients with acquisition and disposition of retail investment properties including grocery-anchored shopping centers. He leverages Bull Realty's marketing, technology, buyer databases, and market research to deliver client services to support individual financial goals and returns.

Austin works closely with his father Michael Bull, CCIM, to provide superior service. Austin has a degree in business administration from the University of North Georgia and enjoys street motorcycles and road course racing in his free time.

"Bull Realty stands as a shining example of integrity, innovation, and excellence in the commercial real estate industry. The remarkable achievements of my father and the business he has built have inspired me profoundly," said Bull. "I am honored to be part of this extraordinary organization and to contribute my passion, expertise, and energy towards its continued growth and success."

Cole specializes in tenant and landlord representation along with investment sales of industrial

Prior to joining Bull Realty, Cole served as an associate at Apex Industrial Real Estate Advisors. Cole received a B.B.A. in Real Estate and Managerial Sciences from Georgia State University. Cole is a native of Acworth, Georgia and enjoys hunting and fishing in his spare time.

“Of all the firms I’ve met with, no other firm provided a culture with more professionalism and integrity than Bull Realty. With the resources and training at Bull, I know serving my clients to the best of my ability will go further,” said Ingram.
