ATLANTA, GA- Bull Realty welcomes commercial real estate brokers Angie Sarris and Aladdin Al Katheri.

Angie takes pride in the service and value provided to clients through in-depth market knowledge. She leverages Bull Realty's marketing technology, buyer databases, and market research to aid in strategic acquisitions and dispositions. Her clients' best interests are always top-of-mind. Utilizing her 15 years of experience in market research and strategic marketing for Fortune 500 and Global 500 companies along with her seven years of real estate experience in a range of verticals, Angie has an invaluable, macro level understanding of the industry.

"I decided to join Bull Realty because of Michael's leadership and the comprehensive resources and support that will allow me to provide more value to clients. I saw Michael speak at an event early on in my career and thought 'this is a guy that knows what he's talking about, and I'd like to work with someday.' That someday was six years later, and I'm excited to now be a part of the Bull Realty team," said Sarris.

Aladdin Al Katheri joined Bull Realty with 25+ years of real estate experience including financial analysis, lending, investor, franchise owner and broker. Al focuses on retail investment sales across the Southeast and Mid-Atlantic markets and offers additional value and efficiency to clients by collaborating with the firm's seasoned advisors.

“Thinking about what would provide my business with longevity and growth, I ultimately decided on joining Bull Realty due to their robust market presence giving me access to a larger network of clients, opening myself up to new opportunities. Additionally, the firm's comprehensive support system, continuous training and professional development, access to cutting-edge technology and direct support from Michael Bull himself all helps to elevate my expertise and credibility as a broker, and streamlines my work processes, allowing me to focus more on deal-making.
